Hello Valued Traveler! It was just a couple weeks ago when we were looking for a sign of relief from the summer heat. That time has come and with falling temperatures comes falling rates. For the next couple of months you're going to find the lowest rates anyone will be able to offer any time of year. Be sure to book early because we are selling out more trips than ever and you'll find several trips that have a special rate for booking early as well. With so many trips space was limited so please don't hesitate to call us or visit our website for more information. While speaking of our website I should mention that we are currently revamping our website and it will be up and running in the next several weeks. The new website will feature more information than ever, a new map feature, flyers, and even the option to book and pay for some of your favorite trips. We hope to have that up and running no later than the new year. Please enjoy the new list of trips and we hope to hear from you soon. PS. The next mailer is not expected to come out before April so please keep this copy until you receive your next brochure.
